We're looking for your feedback and ideas on the future of social housing regulation.

We've published a discussion paper which sets out our early thinking on our future approach, regulatory priorities and how we will work.

We will use the feedback on the paper to develop a detailed proposal for a new Regulatory Framework. We will consult on the new Framework later this year.

For social landlords, effective ways for tenants and service users to have their voices heard are critical. Our work to date has promoted a strong tenant voice.

One of the important themes in the paper is how continue to promote this.

We want to build on the strengths and successes of the existing Regulatory Framework. We also want to learn from our experiences over the last five years, respond to new challenges and consider the future context for landlords.

We want our work to have the most positive impact that it can, so we have also taken account of the latest thinking in wider regulatory best practice.

We are keen to hear what you think about our ideas overall, and to get your views on a number of more specific questions. We welcome feedback from all organisations and individuals with an interest in our work by 30 March 2018.

Our paper explains how we will continue to focus on safeguarding and promoting the interests of tenants, people who are homeless and others who use social landlords' services.
